1 member each where the number of factions is more than 4, and 2 members each where the number of factions is less than 5;

(2) the relevant constituency electoral commission — 2 members.

To appoint a member to each precinct electoral commission, each member of the constituency electoral commission (except for the chairperson of the commission) may nominate 1 candidate. Where the number of nominated candidates is more than 2, the constituency electoral commission shall select the 2 members of the precinct electoral commission by drawing of lots in accordance with the procedure prescribed by the Central Electoral Commission.

- 2.1. During referenda, precinct electoral commissions shall be formed, taking into account the requirements of the Constitutional Law of the Republic of Armenia “On referendum” and the Law of the Republic of Armenia “On local referendum”, respectively.
3. Where no member of the commission is appointed by any political party (alliance of political parties) — in the manner and within the time limits prescribed by this Code for formation of precinct electoral commission — or the number of candidates nominated by the members of the constituency electoral commission is less than 2, the vacant positions of the commission shall be filled instead of them by the chairperson of the relevant constituency electoral commission, within a 3-day period after the expiry of time limits prescribed for formation of the commission. In case of filling vacant positions of the precinct electoral commission in the manner prescribed by this part, the decision of the Central Electoral Commission on distribution by precincts of chairpersons and secretaries of precinct electoral commissions shall not be changed even where the filling of vacant position resulted in violation of proportionality prescribed by the decision.

NMP is the number of mandates obtained by a political party (alliance of political parties) of the National Assembly;

NP is the number of electoral precincts formed;

ND is the number of mandates of Deputies of the National Assembly. The remaining positions of chairperson and secretary of a commission in precinct electoral commissions shall be distributed as per the value of remainders. Where during elections of local self-government bodies, the number of electoral precincts formed is less than 3, the distribution of positions of a chairperson and a secretary of the precinct electoral commission among the bodies having formed a commission shall be carried out by drawing of lots — as prescribed by the Central Electoral Commission — taking into account that those 2 positions within the same commission may not be filled simultaneously by the representatives of political parties (alliances of political parties) participating in the formation of the government.

9. Where no member has been appointed to a precinct electoral commission within the time limit and in the manner prescribed by part 8 of this Article, the vacant positions of members of commission shall be filled by the chairperson of constituency electoral commission from among the persons having the right to be included in precinct electoral commissions. 12. In case of appealing against the election results before a court, the powers of precinct electoral commission shall terminate on the next day following the publication of the judicial act.
13. In case of adopting a decision on declaring the voting results as invalid in particular electoral precincts, or in case of calling a repeat voting in those electoral precincts, the powers of the members of the precinct electoral commission concerned shall be deemed early terminated, and they may not be included in the

Upon the request of the constituency electoral commission, the Police, the National Security Service and, where necessary, other bodies may be engaged in the organising of examination of applications regarding voting instead of another person.

Where there is no sufficient evidence proving participation by the given person in the voting, solely for rendering a decision based on the election results, it shall be considered that, applying the principle of presumption of reliability, voting instead of another person has taken place.

All the applications shall also be forwarded to the relevant law-enforcement body, regardless of the process of examination of the application at the constituency electoral commission.

In case of absence of required documents to be attached to the application or in case of inconformity with the prerequisites prescribed by this part for the application or the statement, the initiation of administrative proceedings based on the application shall be rejected. Four mandates of Deputies shall be distributed among national minority representatives by the principle of 1 mandate to each of the first 4 national minorities with the largest number of resident population based on the data of the latest census preceding the elections. To this end, mandates shall be distributed among the political parties (alliances of political parties) having passed the threshold, by the coefficient received for each mandate, which shall be calculated by the following formula:

$$C_p = \frac{F_m}{M_m + 1}$$

C_p — coefficient of a political party (alliance of political parties);

F_m — the number of mandates received from the first part of the list of the political party (alliance of political parties);

M_m — the total number of mandates already received by the political party (alliance of political parties) out of the 4 mandates for national minority representatives, in calculating the coefficient of the political party (alliance of political parties) for the next mandate.

Mandates of national minority representatives shall be distributed among political parties (alliances of political parties) by the sequence of reduction of coefficients. In case of equal coefficients, the mandate shall be distributed by drawing of lots.

When distributing mandates of national minority representatives, a political party (alliance of political parties) shall provide the mandate to the national minority under the smallest record number in its list not yet having a mandate. Where there is not any in the second part of the electoral list of the political party (alliance of political parties), the turn for the distribution shall be passed on to the political party (alliance of political parties) having the next coefficient by value. Where in the course of such a process it is impossible to distribute mandates of national minority representatives any more, the respective mandate shall remain vacant.

(Article 95 amended by HO-171-N of 1 April 2021)

(Article, as amended by HO-202-N of 7 May 2021, shall enter into force from the day of appointing the next regular elections of the National Assembly)

Article 96. Majority additional mandates

1. Where, as a result of due application of parts 4-9 of Article 95 of this Code, any political party receives the majority of the total number of mandates distributed under parts 4-9 of Article 95, which is less than 52 per cent, the given political party shall receive as many minimum additional mandates as necessary for the number of mandates of that political party, expressed in per cents, to make no less than 52 per cent.
2. Where as a result of due application of parts 4-9 of Article 95 of this Code any political party receives more than $\frac{2}{3}$ of the total number of mandates distributed under parts 4-9 of Article 95, the other political parties shall receive as many minimum additional mandates (AM) as necessary for the total number of their mandates to result in no less than $\frac{1}{3}$ of the total number of mandates of the National Assembly. The number of additional mandates available for each political party shall be determined as follows: the number of mandates received by that political party shall be multiplied by the number of AM, the product shall be divided by the total number of mandates received — before providing additional mandates — by political parties receiving additional mandates, and the integer numbers shall be parted which shall be the numbers of additional mandates available for the given political party. The remaining mandates shall be distributed among political parties by the sequence of value of remainders, by the principle of one mandate to each. In case the values of remainders are equal, the contested mandate shall be given to the political party with the highest number of mandates, and in the event of a tie, the mandate shall be given by drawing of lots.
3. (Part repealed by HO-171-N of 1 April 2021)

Where less than 3 political parties (alliances of political parties) have received at least 4 (6) percent of ballot papers with affirmative vote out of the sum of the total number of ballot papers with affirmative vote and the number of inaccuracies, 3 political parties (alliances of political parties) having received the maximum number of ballot papers with affirmative vote shall participate in the distribution of mandates, where 3 or more political parties (alliances of political parties) have run in the election.

- 3.1. Where 2 political parties (alliances of political parties) have run in elections, 2 political parties (alliances of political parties) shall participate in the distribution of mandates.

Where one political party (alliance of political parties) has run in election and has received ballot papers with affirmative votes in a number defined by part 3.2 of this Article, all mandates shall be handed over to the given political party (alliance of political parties).

- 3.2. Where one political party (alliance of political parties) has been voted, a decision on of relevant community Council of Elders being elected shall be adopted if more than half of the voting participants have voted for that decision.

4. Mandates of the members of the Council of Elders shall be distributed among the electoral lists of political parties (alliances of political parties) in proportion with the number of ballot papers cast in favour of each of them. The number of mandates available for each electoral list shall be calculated as follows: the number of ballot papers with affirmative vote cast in favour of each electoral list shall be multiplied by the number of mandates available for electoral lists, the product shall be divided by the total number of ballot papers with affirmative vote cast in favour of the electoral lists participating in the distribution of mandates, and the integer numbers shall be parted which shall be the numbers of mandates available for the electoral list of each political party (alliance of political parties).

The remaining mandates shall be distributed among electoral lists by the sequence of value of remainders, by the principle of one mandate to each. In case the values of remainders are equal, the contested mandate shall be given to the electoral list with the highest number of ballot papers with affirmative vote cast in favour, whereas in the event of a tie the mandate shall be given by drawing of lots.

5. (Part repealed by HO-333-N of 18 June 2020)

6. A candidate, whose record number in the electoral list is smaller than or equal to the number of mandates available for that electoral list, shall be elected from the electoral list.

Where as a result of it, more than 70 per cent of the mandates of the political party are distributed among representatives of the same sex, the mandates of the more represented sex exceeding 70 per cent shall be passed on to the candidates under the smallest number from the less represented sex of the electoral list, if any, ensuring representation of not less than 30 per cent of the less represented sex. If the number of candidates included in the electoral list of a political party is smaller than the number of mandates available, these mandates shall remain vacant.

The Central Electoral Commission shall draw up a protocol on candidates elected as members of the Council of Elders of Yerevan, whereas the protocol on candidates elected as members of the councils of elders of other communities in which elections are held through the proportional electoral system shall be drawn up by the relevant constituency electoral commission.

7. Where the number of candidates included in the electoral list of a political party (alliance of political parties) is smaller than the number of mandates available as a result of distribution of mandates, these mandates shall remain vacant.
8. The mandate of a member of Council of Elders — who has waived the mandate or who has been elected and whose powers have been early terminated — shall be given to the next candidate in sequence of the electoral list of that political party (alliance of political parties) upon a protocol of the relevant electoral commission, within a 1-week period after notifying the commission thereon, and where as a result of it, the number of representatives of any sex in the given faction falls below and results in less than 25 per cent, it shall be given to the next candidate of less represented sex in the electoral list of that political party (alliance of political parties), if any.

Where there is no other candidate in the electoral list, the mandate shall remain vacant.

9. Applications for recusal or waiver of the mandate submitted by persons included in the electoral list of a political party (alliance of political parties) shall be certified by a notary, or the person shall confirm such application at the sitting of the electoral commission. party (alliance of political parties) shall be deemed to be elected head of community by virtue of law.

3. Where the person in first place on the electoral list of the political party (alliance of political parties) referred to in part 2 of this Article refuses or, as a result of the elections of Council of Elders no political party (alliance of political parties) receives more than 50 per cent of the seats of members of the Council of Elders, the head of community shall be elected through open ballot.
4. The factions of the Council of Elders may nominate the person who is in first place on their list of candidates of the political party (alliance of political parties) as candidate for head of community, and where he or she refuses, the faction may nominate the next person on the list of candidates of the political party (alliance of political parties) concerned, respectively, who agrees to be nominated as a candidate.
5. The voting shall be held through ballot papers, in which all the nominated candidates are included.

PART THREE

CHAPTER 31

ADDITIONAL, TRANSITIONAL AND FINAL PROVISIONS

Article 143. Procedure for preferential voting

1. In preferential voting, surnames, names, patronymics of all candidates shall be specified on the left side of the ballot paper, and empty tick boxes shall be placed to the right of each candidate for the voter to make a note. The order of names of candidates shall be determined by drawing of lots. The ballot paper may be substituted by an electronic data file expressing the preferences.
2. In the ballot paper the elector shall enter the figure “1” in the tick box next to the name of the candidate to whom the elector gives his or her first preference. Subsequent integer numbers, starting from “2”, shall then be respectively entered in the tick boxes next to the names of other candidates in the order of preference given thereto. No number shall be entered in the tick boxes against those candidates to whom the elector gives no preference, but in any case, preference for candidates must be expressed at least for the number of vacant seats. At a particular stage of summarisation of voting results, a ballot paper shall be considered as given in favour of the continuing candidate who has the highest level of preference votes in that ballot paper.
3. The following main concepts are used in this Article:
 - (1) continuing candidate — candidate who is neither excluded from the counting nor declared as elected at a certain stage of summarisation of voting results;
 - (2) value of ballot paper — numerical value given to the ballot paper as prescribed by this Article at a certain stage of summarisation of voting results;
 - (3) total value of ballot papers — the total sum of values of all ballot papers not excluded from the counting at a certain stage of summarisation of voting results;
 - (4) value of votes for the candidate — the total sum of values of ballot papers cast in favour of the candidate, which are not excluded from the counting;
 - (5) passing quota — the minimum number of votes necessary for being deemed to be elected at a certain stage of summarisation of voting results;
 - (6) value of surplus votes for the candidate — the difference between the passing quota and the value of votes for the candidate, who is deemed to be elected by the result of a certain stage;

(7) gender equality standard — a quantitative standard ensuring gender equality between the elected candidates (for example, the number of representatives of each sex among the elected candidates must not be more than 6).

4. The voting results shall be summarised electronically. For the summarisation of voting results, the following steps shall be taken in turn until the summarisation of voting results is completed. All the arithmetical actions shall be done with 2-digit accuracy after the decimal point.

Step 1. Invalid ballot papers shall be excluded from the counting. A ballot paper shall be deemed as invalid if it contains no preference given to candidates, at least equal to the number of vacant positions, or more than one candidate has received the same level of preference votes. All valid ballot papers shall be deemed not excluded from the counting, and the value of those ballot papers shall be considered as “1”.

Step 2. Ballot papers cast in favour of candidates not excluded from the counting shall be sorted as per the candidates. All candidates shall be deemed to be continuing candidates.

Step 3. Where the election of a representative of one of the sexes violates the gender equality standard:

- a. all the representatives of that gender shall be excluded from the counting;
- b. their ballot papers shall be distributed in the following manner: the ballot paper with the same value shall be added to the ballot papers of the continuing candidates in favour of whom it is cast.

Step 4. Where the number of all the elected candidates equals to the number of vacant seats, the summarisation of the voting results shall be completed.

Where the number of all the elected candidates is smaller than the number of vacant seats, but the compliance with gender equality standard unequivocally predetermines the candidates who are to fill the vacant seats, these respective candidates shall also be announced as elected, and the summarisation of the voting results shall be completed.

Step 5. The value of votes for the candidate shall be calculated for each continuing candidate. Based on these calculations, the total value of ballot papers shall be calculated, which shall be the total sum of votes of all continuing candidates.

The passing quota shall be calculated in accordance with the following formula:

$$\text{Passing quota} = \frac{\text{Total value of ballot papers}}{(\text{Number of vacant seats} + 1) + 0.01}$$

- Step 6. Where there is no continuing candidate whose total value of votes is higher than or equal to the passing quota, the process of summarisation of voting results shall continue from Step 10.
- Step 7. The continuing candidate, whose total value of votes is the highest, shall be deemed as elected.
- Step 8. For the elected candidate the value of surplus votes for the candidate, equalling to the difference of the value of the votes for the candidate and the passing quota, shall be counted. A new value of vote shall be given to each ballot paper cast in favour of that candidate. For the purpose of counting it, the value of vote of the ballot paper shall be multiplied by the value of surplus votes for the candidate and divided by the value of votes for the candidate.
- Step 9. All ballot papers of an elected candidate shall be re-distributed in the following manner: the ballot paper shall be added to ballot papers of the candidate in favour of whom it is cast. Where there is no such continuing candidate, the ballot paper shall be excluded from the counting and shall never be used during the following summarisation steps. The summarisation of the voting results shall continue from Step 3.
- Step 10. A continuing candidate with the lowest value of votes shall be excluded from the counting unless it violates the gender equality standard. In case it violates the gender equality standard, the candidate having received the minimum votes, whose exclusion will not violate the gender equality standard, shall be excluded from the counting. Where due to the tie of votes it is impossible to determine the candidate having received the minimum votes, the candidate to be excluded shall be determined by drawing of lots.
- Ballot papers of the candidate excluded from the counting shall be distributed in the following manner: the ballot paper with the same value shall be added to ballot papers of the continuing candidate in favour of whom it is cast. The summarisation of the voting results shall continue from Step 3.
